NOBODY'S CHILD.

BY PHŒBE CAREY.

Only a newsboy under the light
Of the lamp post plying his trade in vain,
Men are too busy to stop to-night,
Hurrying home through the sleet and rain
Never since dark a paper sold;
Where shall he sleep, or how be fed?
He thinks as he shivers there in the cold,
While happy children are safe a-bed.

Is it strange if he turns about
With angry words, then comes to blows,
When his little neighbor, just sold out,
Tossing his pennies past him goes?
"Stop!" some one looks at him sweet and mild,
And the voice that speaks is a tender one.
"You should not strive such a little child,
And you should not use such words, my son!"

Is it his anger or his fears
That have hushed his voice and stopped his arms?
"Don't tremble," these are the words he hears;
"No you think that I would do you harm?"
"It isn't that," and the hand drops down;
"I wouldn't care for kicks and blows;
But nobobody ever called me son,
Because i'm nobody's child, I s'pose."

O men! as ye careless pass along,
Remember the love that has cared for you;
And blush for the awful shame and wrong
Of a world where such a thing could be true!
Think what the child at your knee had been
If thus on life's lonely billows tossed;
And who shall bear the weight of the sin,
If one of these "little ones" be lost!

WAS HE TRUE?

She stood on the topmost point of a high rock, her disordered yellow tresses blowing in bluffy ringlets about her pretty flushed cheeks, her big, dark eyes all aglow with anticipated fun. She held her straw hat in her hand, swinging it listlessly by its scarlet strings; but upon the near approach of a gentleman, she flung it deliberately into the sea.

'Get my hat, Clive,' she commanded, as he came up to her, panting from his brisk walk.

A tall, giant-like young fellow he was surely, towering far above the fairy-like personage before him. He stood irresolute a moment, evidently in no mood for a duckieg at high tide, from such a perilous point as this.

'Do you hear, sir?' cried Miss Beatrice Chelton, impatiently stamping her small foot. 'Fie! what a gallant knight you are!'

The young man clutched frantically at the hat, as it was washed ashore by the incoming tide. But it was carried beyond his grasp, and it took some exertion for him to keep his balance upon the slippery sand. After two or

THE STACK—O'HARA CASE.

Some years ago Bishop O'Hara of the Roman Catholic church removed Father Stack from his charge of a church at Williamsport. Stack took the matter into the civil courts and after much litigation it was decided in the Bishop's favor. Stack then brought suit against the Bishop for $50,000 damages, and this case was tried at Williamsport last week. W. H. Armstrong, and Mr. Price represented the plaintiff, and, J. M. Parker and Ex-Judge Harding the defendant. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant on Saturday. In speaking of the argument the Gazette and Bulletin says:

The arguments of Messrs. Parker, Armstrong and Price are universally commended as examples of legal acumen, learning and eloquence, while on all sides the police-court effort of Ex-Judge Harding, replete with billingsgate and vituperation, is sneered at as an ineffectual attempt to bullrag. Bishop O'Hara needs no character to be given him by Garrick M. Harding, while as regards to reputation, M. P. Stack's is as far above him as the stars are above the bull frogs. Mr Parker had all that he could do to answer the learned arguments of opponents, without being handicapped by so frivolous and unfortunate an argument—no, not argument—as that of which Mr. Harding relieved himself.

Is the Amending Power of the Constitution Subject to Amendment.

If we turn to the original Constitution, we find that after providing for a mode in which it could be amended, it laid this important restriction upon the amending power: that no State without its consent shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate. Its equal suffrage in the Senate meant, under another provision, that each State shall have two Senators. The amending power was vested in three-fourths of the States, but the equal suffrage of the States in the Senate was forever excepted out of that power. In like manner, to every State was given in the Electoral College, by which its vote for President of the United States was to be cast, a number of electors made up of the same number as it was entitled to have of Senators added to the number of its Representatives in the lower house of Congress. Notwithstanding the restriction which the Constitution lays upon the amending power, is that power itself capable of being so amended as to do away with this restriction, and by a vote of three-fourths of the States, introduce, through the amending process, a different mode of representation in the Senate and in the Electoral Colleges? I presume that most persons would be startled by this inquiry. But it is an inquiry that goes to a deep question: Are there any fundamental rights and powers of the people of every State which are so fixed and immutable that they are beyond the reach of the will of three-fourths of the States? It is not enough, with respect even to this matter of equal suffrage in the Senate, to point to the special restriction laid upon the amending power. That power either is or is not capable of being changed by a three-fourths vote of the States. If it is capable of being changed, the restriction may be taken away. If it is not capable of being changed, the restriction will remain. But there are other important rights that may be affected by the amending process. Can three-fourths of the Staets so amend the Constitution as to make the President Executive for life, and make his eldest son his successor? In other words, have the people of every State an unalterable, fixed, and vested constitutional right to have the Executive office filled and occupied for a fixed term of years, and an equally fixed, vested, and unalterable fixed constitutional right to have the President appointed by electors to be chosen in each State as its legislature may direct? And are there any other rights of the States or their people which are not subject to the amending power of three-fourths of the States? Whether the amending power is itself capable of being enlarged, is a question very important to be considered, when we are considering the strength and stability of the Constitution; for it is an unlimited power, the system of the Constitution may be converted into almost anything that can command the physical force requisite to compel submission.—George Teknor Curtis, in Harper's Magazine for June.

Panic at Hyde Park.

SCRANTON, May 19.—The residents of Hyde Park, this city, are in an intense state of apprehension as to the safety of their property. Most of that section is completely undermined by coal mines, and indications of danger from subterranean convulsions have been experienced at various periods. During last night and this morning a number of fine properties along Scranton and Jackson avenues were badly shattered and the havoc extends for a distance of nearly half a mile. The cause of the shock proceeds from the Oxford mine, which was abandoned some years ago. Within ten years past many cave-ins have occurred in the vicinity where last-nights catastrophe took place. The scene was visited by hundreds to-day and the cave-in has caused fear and terror among the property holders. Three fine stores, owned respectfully by Michael Toohill, John O'Hare, Thomas McNicholas and Mrs. Gallagher, were badly shaken, and workmen placed huge props against the walls to prevent the buildings from falling into the street. A planing mill and the adjacent buildings, owned by Joseph Ansley, were twisted out of proportion, and houses belonging to John Walsh and a man named Steil have been rendered unfit for occupancy. The track of the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg railroad has sunk at the Scranton avenue crossing, and much inconvenience will doubtless result. Large gaps have opened in the street, and wagons are in danger of tumbling in. The water in the wells and cisterns has disappeared. At least fifteen well cultivated gardens are cut up with fissures. It is feared that greatest damage will ensue, and many residents in the endangered districts are hurriedly preparing to seek more comfortable quarters.

INFORMATION FOR APPLICANTS FOR APPOINTMENT AS CENSUS ENUMERATORS.

The appointments of enumerators for this county will probably be made next week. This office is incompatible with certain others, and we therefore print below the law on the subject. Section 2 of Article XII of the Constitution of 1873 is as follows:

"No member of Congress from this State, nor any person holding or exercising any office or appointment of trust or profit under the United States, shall at the same time hold or exercise any office in this State to which a salary, fees or perquisites shall be attached. The General Assembly may by law declare what offices are incompatible."

The first four sections of the Act of 15 May, 1874 also bear upon this matter.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted, &c., That every person who shall hold any office, or appointment of profit or trust, under the government of the United States, whether a commissioned officer or otherwise, a subordinate officer or agent, who is or shall be employed under the legislative, executive or judiciary departments of the United States, and also every member of congress, is hereby declared to be incapable of holding or exercising, at the same time, the office or appointment of justice of the peace, notary public, mayor, recorder, burgess or alderman of any city, corporate town or borough, resident physician of the lazaretto, constable, judge, inspector or clerk of election under this commonwealth.

SECTION 2. The holding of any of the aforesaid offices or appointments under this State, is hereby declared to be incompatible with any office or appointment under the United States, and every such commission, office or appointment, so holden under the government of this State, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, shall be and is hereby declared to be null and void.

SECTION 3. If any person after the expiration of six months from the passing of this act, shall exercise any office or appointments, the exercise of which is by this act declared to be incompatible, every person so offending shall for every such offence, being thereof legally convicted in any court of record, forfeit and pay any sum not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars, at the discretion of the court, one moiety of the said forfeiture to be paid to the overseers, guardians, directors of the poor of the township, district, county or place where such offense shall have been committed, to be applied to the support of the poor, and the other moiety thereof to the prosecutor who shall sue for the same.

MILTON IN ASHES.

LOSS ABOUT $2,000,000.

One of the most destructive fires that has ever afflicted any community occurred last Friday at Milton.

The fire was first discovered about half-past 11 o'clock in the boiler house of the main workshop in Murray, Dugal & Co's Car and Bridge Works. There was a strong Northwest wind blowing at the time, which fanned the flames to such an extent that they were soon beyond control and began spreading rapidly. Lawson's Machine Works, which were close to the car works, were soon blazing, and the authorities, seeing the Fire Department was unable to cope with the flames, telegraphed for asistance. The course taken by the fire was from the Susquehanna river bridge, on Front street to Broadway, the main thoroughfare, and on through the town, destroying in its way the Academy of Music, the Armory, the Presbyterian and other churches, the Adams and Philadelphia and Reading Express offices, Western Union Telegraph office, Philadelphia and Erie passenger depot, the Miltonian and Indepedent news paper offices, the gas works, all the hotels, banks, places of business, stores, factories, tanneries and workshops, rendering about fifteen hundred people homeless, most of whom that night had to sleep in the open air. Some, however, were provided with tents. The Reading Railroad depot and telegraph office, on the opposite side of the river, were not damaged. The Western Union men saved nothing but their books. A clear swath of about one mile long and a half to three quarters of a mile wide was burned through the place. The greatest excitement prevailed. The citizens of Danville and Williamsport were first to respond to the wants of the people, a train containing goods reaching Milton from these points at 8:30 o'clock that night. Governor Hoyt telegraphed to the authorities of different cities asking them to furnish aid to the stricken families.

The fire reached its worst phase about 3 o'clock, when the town presented the appearance of a sea of flames. Among the residences destroyed were those of ex-Governor Pollock and the late Wm. Cameron, brother of General Simon Cameron. All the hotels in the town, except a frame building, and all the churches, except the Episcopal, a small edifice, and about 100 business houses were destroyed, many of which were large and costly. The churches were the Presbyterian, Baptist, Catholic, German Reformed, Methodist, Evangelist, Lutheran and Covenanter, involving a loss of $100,000 in church property alone. The hotels were the United States, Huff House and Broadway, worth about $60,000. The most costly buildings destroyed were the car works and Reber's tannery, valued at $200,000. The insurance on the car shops is $75,000, and on the tannery $45,000. Altogether about 450 buildings, comprising two-thirds of the town, are in ashes. The insurance on these properties is about $500,000, representing one-third of the loss. The following named companies suffer by the fire. Fire Association, Franklin, North American, Pennsylvania, Girard and America, all of Philadelphia; Farmers', of New York, Mutual, of Danville; London Liverpool and Globe; Germania and Watertown, New York, and Lycoming. The latter loses nearly $100,000. Only three business houses of the one hundred in the town are standing and only one of any consequence—Wilson's fly net factory. The rolling mill and nail factory, two grist mills and two planing mills, in the suburbs were saved. The Milton National and First National banks were destroyed and all the printing and newspaper offices. The property burned represented in value about four-fifths of the entire Milton proper. A man named J. Angeny, aged about sixty years, was overcome by the smoke and heat and burned to death. He was found in an alley burned in a frightful manner. He was an inmate of the Poor-house. Many of the families who have been rendered homeless are camping on Allen's Island, opposite the town. Others passed the night in open fields and other exposed points The large number of sufferers are being sheltered in Lewisburg and other surrounding towns, while the citizens whose houses escaped are doing all they can to accommodate the homeless. Provisions are being sent in from all directions, and are being distributed from three points in the town. Large quantities of household goods were loaded on cars and taken up and down the road, and the fields around the town were filled with goods. During the confusion many articles were carried away. One lady lost $6,000 in government bonds. The fire raged so fiercely in the upper part of the town most of the people barely escaped with their lives. The wife of Dr. Cyrus Brown is badly burned and several others are known to be seriously injured. The scene next morning was one of great confusion, hundreds of people pouring into town from every direction. The fire was gotten under control about 6 o'clock. The loss is estimated at about $2,000,000. During the fire the hose of the Milton Steam Fire Company was burned.

On Sunday thousands of people visited the scene of this terrible disaster. It was intended to run excursion trains but the Milton people requested the railroad not to do so, and they were abandoned, but nearly every body within thirty miles who owned a horse or could hire a livery, drove there. On Monday morning in company with a number of others from this place we visited the stricken town. None of the reports of the fire have been exaggerated in the least. The town presents a sad spectacle indeed. No one seems to know what is to be done, but all seemed to look at the bright side, and to hope that business may soon be resumed. It will be a long time before Milton will be the pretty active, town she has been for some years. We found men already at work cleaning up the debris, and several buildings were being erected for temporary use. A number of safes were opened by the owners and contents in most cases found to be in fair condition. Men were engaged in opening the bank vaults as we left.

Among the losers is W. H. Smith of the Independent, formerly of this county. His entire stock of presses type, &c. was destroyed, and no insurance on them. His loss is $4500. He proposes to start up again in two freight cars, until he can do better. An abundant supply of provisions has been sent in from different points for the immediate necessities of the people, and are being daily distributed. Families who last week lived in fine style with plenty of this world's goods, are now compelled to go to the commissary for food. There is nothing to be bought, and many of them have no cooking utensils to prepare food even if they could buy it. Imagine Bloomsburg burned from Scott town hill to East street, and from Rock street to the rail road, and you will have some idea of the condition of Milton.

MILTON, May 17.—The financial commission which was fully organized to-day is composed of Milton's representative men and an honorable and equitable distribution of funds is thereby guranteed the generous who have aided and condoled with the sufferers rendered homeless and penniless by a disaster unprecedented in the history of the old Keystone state. On every side profuse congratulations are offered the thousands of donors by the sufferers who congregate on the street corners and in the public squares. The burgess is spoken of in the highest commendation by the people en masse for the interest he has manifested day and night in the welfare of the stricken community. His office has been besieged since the calamity, and his generous actions and unparelleled impartiality to all classes have won laurels for him. Many men are at work clearing up the debris and the rebuilding of business houses has already commenced. Streets are patrolled nightly and order is guranteed. The commission is constituted as follows: O. B. Nagle, Burgess; C. C. Staub, Chairman; A. Cadwallader, Vice Chairman; R. T. Wilson Clerk; George Piper, Treasurer; L. J. F. Wolfinger, Recording Secretary; Cyrus Brown, W. H. Reber, George Barclay, Jacob Teidel, S. L. Finney, Moses Chamberlain, C. W. Tharp, W. P. Dougal, W. A Schreyer, and W. C. Lawson.

AID FOR MILTON.

On Sunday afternoon a person connected with the COLUMBIAN called upon the several ministers of the town and requested them to announce from their pulpits a meeting of the citizens to be held at the Court House on Monday evening to take steps towards the relief of the afflicted people of Milton. On Monday morning hand bills were posted through the town calling for a meeting. Pursuant to the call a number of persons gathered at the Court House on Monday evening, and organized by electing Judge Elwell Chairman. He stated the purpose of the gathering and expressed the hope that the people would respond liberally. F. P. Billmeyer, J. C. Brown and Geo. E. Elwell were elected Secretaries. On motion of Geo. E. Elwell a committee of ten gentlemen were appointed to solicit money and contributions in food and clothing. The following persons were appointed: D. Lowenberg, Freas Brown, W. R. Tubbs, B. F. Zarr, R. C. Neal, I. W. Hartman, H. J. Clark, N. U. Funk, R. R. Little and L. N. Moyer. On motion of W. H. Abbott a similar committee of ladies was appointed as follows: Mrs. W. Neal, Mrs. S. N. A subscription paper was started by E. H. Little, Esq., with a check for one hundred dollars, and in a few moments, money to the amount of $328.50 was collected. Since then the amount has raised to something over $500, and on Tuesday Mr. Lowenberg telegraphed the authorities at Milton that they could draw on him for that amount. Large quantities of provision and clothing have been sent in and shipped to the relief committee at Milton. The contributions that have been made speak well for the liberality of our people. Mr. E. Jacoby denies the insinuation of the Town Council at their last meeting that he has in his possession tools belonging to the town, and alleges that he delivered to the present street commissioner every thing belonging to the town as soon as the new appointment was made.

Four members of the Town Council have indicated their disapproval of the injunction proceedings against the Water Works; the court in an opinion filed has indicated pretty clearly that the town has no ground of complaint; the citizens generally are indignant at an forced litigation which is almost certain to result in a large bill of costs for the town to pay. Wouldn't it be a good time to stop now?

A poor boy named Holder, died last week, Wednesday, in Rabb town. Having no friends nor money it became necessary to have him buried at the public expence. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the proper machinery into working order, all the members of the board of poor directors being out of town.

A writer in the June Scribner who seems to speak by authority says that the only known contribution to the Kansas Exodus Relief Fund by any man engaged in politics was $100 sent by Vice President Wheeler. It is also said that not a dollar of public funds has been expended in any way for the colored immigrants in Kansas. "Not a single colored tramp was seen in Kansas all winter," says this writer, "and only only one colored person was convicted of crime"

A little dog was run over on Main street last week, Friday, by reason of its being blind and lame. Some one kindly carried it from the street to the pavement and laid it down, when Joe, a noble Newfoundland dog belonging to Mr. Richard took it in charge, showing almost human tenderness in his sympathy for his injured friend. He lay down on the pavement by the side of the little dog and would allow no one to touch it. Several boys tried every device to get Joe away but all in vain. We do not know what became of the little dog, but hope that some one killed it to put it out of its misery.

The wedding ceremonies of Mr. Deemer Bidleman and Miss Lottie Sunderland were solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock by Rev. The best wishes of a large circle of friends go with the young couple on their voyage through life. The 7:51 train conveyed the newly married pair to Scranton, where Mr. Bidleman is engaged as General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The editor extends his thanks for a liberal quantity of cake as well as his congratulations.—Shickshinny Echo.

From the Rockport Ind. Banner: There is no medicine in the world which has gained such fame as St. Jacob's Oil. This is, however, not in the least astonishing, when we consider its truly wonderful curative powers. Mr. F. Rodenberg, of Grandview, called at our office last week and related the following circumstance: I suffered with Rheumatism for over six years; consulted many physicians and tried hundreds of remedies, but without avail. Having seen St. Jacob's Oil advertised in your paper, and heard of some most astonishing cures, I sent to Rockport for a bottle of Oil, and used it according to directions. The relief I felt was almost "electric." I got better at once, and now there is not a trace of Rheumatism left in my body.

ORANGEVILLE ITEMS.

Mr. John Evans and wife from Missouri, who moved from this neighborhood about twenty-five years ago, are visiting friends here. Time has written furrows on their brows and made many changes in our community. Only a remnant of the former generation remains while a new one has sprung up.

Perry Delong is building an addition to his house on Mill street, which will add greatly to the improvement of his premises.

George Fleckenstine is completing his new house. It will be an ornament to our town.

Mercantile competition is quite lively in this place and has led to a profitable issue for John, the well-digger.

Joseph Fausey was very recklessly driving a horse about our town last Thursday; a thing that should not be allowed.

Our foundry is booming and the tough mules are kept on the road almost day and night.

Rev. Houtz started for Georgetown on Monday to attend the annual meeting of the East Susquehanna Classis.

Dr. Ammerman has gone to Reading to attend the Grand Lodge of the I. O. of O. F.

Early on last Thursday morning the sad news reached us of the death of Miss Elmira Poust, a most estimable young lady who has been afflicted two or more years with a nervous, mental and optic affliction. Having nearly recovered her health, it was believed that an operation by a skillful optician might restore her sight. She was taken to Wilkesbarre a few weeks ago where her eyes were operated on, from which she seemed to have received no injury, but was feeling very comfortable. The prospect of speedy recovery seemed to brighten, but alas; several days subsequently she became suddenly very ill and expired within fifteen hours. She was the only daughter of Jonathan Poust and the bereaved parents have the sympathy of a deeply affected community.

Mary Houtz and Glenni Herring have been quite ill but are now recovered.

DUTIES OF BOROUGH AUTHORITIES

The following opinion of the court delivered in the case of the Commonwealth vs. the Town Council of the Town of Bloomsburg, fixes the liability of officers for neglecting to repair streets.

Commonwealth vs. I. S. Kuhn, et. al. } Motion to quash Indictment.

OPINION OF THE COURT.

Neglect to keep in repair the public roads in any municipal district is a violation of a public duty, and is punishable by indictment at common law. Phillips vs. Commonwealth 44 St. Rep. 199. The liability to indictment follows from the breach of a public duty. Edge vs. Commonwealth 7 Barr 276. Commonwealth vs. Reeter 78 St. Rep, 165.

In the borough of Uniontown vs. the Commonwealth 10 Casey 297, it was held that by common right a borough is bound to keep its streets in repair. Where the only question is as to the liability mandamus is a proper remedy —but where the question is whether the duty has been properly performed that remedy cannot be invoked id. Commonwealth vs. Reading 1 Jones 201.

Certainly in some form, the courts have power to compel the performance of this duty or to punish for its non performance. In many of the States it is held that an indictment will lie against the municipal corporation itself for neglecting the duty to keep its streets in repair. 2 Dillon Municipal Corporations, Sec. 747 and note. And that the officers may be personally indicted for neglect of duty. In this State the practice has uniformly been to proceed against the officers.

The 7th section of the Act organizing the Town of Bloomsburg confers upon it all the powers of boroughs given by the several sections of the Acts of 1834, 1851 and 1856 therein mentioned. The Act of 1834 makes it the duty of a burgess of a borough to cause to be opened all the streets, lanes or alleys, and for neglect or refusal so to do makes him liable to like penalties as incurred by supervisors of highways for similar offences.

The Act of 1851 gives power to regulate the roads, streets, &c., and the heights, grades, widths, slopes and forms thereof and all needful jurisdiction over the same. It is also by the 6th section made the duty of the burgess to enforce the ordinances and regulations to remove nuisances and exact a faithful performance of the duties of the officers appointed Needful jurisdiction over the streets and alleys includes both the power and the duty to keep them in reasonable repair and safe to be traveled. When the law grants anything to any one, that also is granted without which the thing itself cannot be. Bishop on Statutory Crimes Sec. 137.

The Town Council have control of the funds of the corporation. The street commissioner is but a subordinate officer subject also to the control of the council. The council are therefore responsible to the public if the streets are permitted to be out of repair to the extent charged in this indictment.

They are not indictable for errors of judgment in matters committed to their discretion. But this immunity does not extend to neglect or refusal to do what the law enjoins upon them.

It is contended that no general law imposes upon council the duty of seeing to it that the streets are in repair. I hold however that the territory incorporated by the Act of 4 March 1870 as "The Town of Bloomsburg" became and is subject to the general laws so far as regards the powers and organization of a township, and also to the general laws in regard to boroughs with few exceptions.

I hold also that independent of legislation in regard to jurisdiction over the streets the common law imposed upon the municipal authorities the duty of keeping the streets within their borders in repair.

The indictment, as amended, alleges with reasonable certainty that the defendants were town council and acted as such—and it also alleges that they neglected their duty. According to the precedents this is a sufficient averment, that the matter neglected was a duty.

The motion to quash the indictment is overruled and the defendants are directed to plead thereto.

BY THE COURT.

A HOUSEHOLD NEED.—A book on the liver, its disease and their treatment sent free; including treatises upon liver complaints, torpid liver, jaundice, billiousness, headache, constipation, dyspepsia, malaria, etc. Address Dr. Sanford, 162 Broadway, New York City, N. Y. may 7-4w.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C. May. 18th 1880.

There has been some dissatisfaction on the adjournment resolution passed by the House on Saturday, but nearly everybody has become reconciled. Two or three measures of importance will fail by reason of adjournment on May 31st, but they are not of a kind upon which satisfactory legislation could be had if Congress should remain in session all Summer. There will be no difficulty in passing the appropriation bills, the Ute agreement bill, the Eaton tariff commission bill, and disposing of the more important private bills on the calenders of the two Houses.

The friends of General Grant here figure out considerable gains for him if the New York and Pennsylvania delegates to Chicago disobey instructions. These alleged gains are in the west and south mostly. No doubt whatever is felt by any of Grant's Washington friends of his nomination on the first formal ballot.

Senator Bayard will have up to-day his bill providing for the payment of Federal election marshals, and hopes to pass it. As the bill has the same "rider" that caused a veto of the Immediate Deficiency bill, Mr. Hayes will probably veto this, also, and it is said that he will call an extra session of Congress, if, after the veto, no provision is made for the marshals. I have failed inadvertantly to mention that a paper called the "Exodus," has lately been established here by an association of colored men. In its first number it presented the name of Senator Bruce as a candidate for Vice-President, and argued with great force that, if the Radical party wished to act up to its profession of special regard for the Colored race it could do so by giving to Senator Bruce this nomination. Hon. Fredrick Douglass, the ablest of all of the Colored citizens, publishes a letter this morning in which he, also, advocates Bruce's nomination. The impending split in the Radical party will cause the defeat of any candidate, no matter who he may be, and the suggestion to offer the empty honor to Bruce is at least harmless.

Washington will entertain more strangers than ever before except at the "Great Review" at the close of the war, and the Presidential inauguration. The boat race has not only captured all Washington, but, apparently, all the other cities. So far everything promises well, and the contestants are in excellent condition.

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 7.

Headquarters, Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8th, 1880.

Comrades! On the 29th of May we will be called once more to observe our Annual Sacrament of Sorrow, and to celebrate another Memorial Day. Again we must reverently droop the old flag over the graves of those who died, so that it might still wave, the unsullied emblem of a Nation, united and free; and to scatter upon the mounds which mark their bivouac, the choicest flowers of spring.

Decoration Day, always the tenderest, has now become one of the most significant of our holidays, in the fact that it is purely a "Memorial" of the private soldier. The deeds of our great captains are carved in marble, perpetuated in bronze, and engraved on the tablets of history—but the flowers of Memorial Day fall upon the graves and commemorate the unrecorded bravery of the ranks—a beautiful and almost universal homage to the service and sacrifice of the Union Volunteer Soldier.

If others forget the purchase price of the Union, we must recall it in our devotions; if others forget the costly sacrifice of life, we must recall it in our renewed allegiance to the sentiment for which our comrades died, and while in music and eloquence you recall the heroism which won our victory, and saved the Nation's precious life, do not fail to appeal to that better sentiment which will reconcile political differences between our good citizens of all parties in all sections. For the Union one and inseparable they died, over whose green graves we spread the gems of wood and wild: cypress and laurel.

Citizens of Pennsylvania! The Grand Army appeals to you, that where no organization of veterans exists, there may be found willing hands to pay this loving tribute to the Nation's dead. To the reverend clergy, to teachers, to schools, to orders and societies, we appeal that no spot, however lonely, no grave however neglected, where sleeps a soldier of the Union shall the sun-set of Decoration Day find unadorned with an offering of remembrance. The land is already dotted with the graves of the unknown; let not Pennsylvania's soil hold a single one that may be marked forgotten! Rather let the cemeteries of the Keystone State be strewn with flowers, till every veteran's tomb shall wear a mantle of beauty fit for such a shrine.

The Department Commander recommends that each Post provide for an appropriate sermon, on Sunday, the 30th, attending the appointed service in uniform and in a body.

By command of

CHILL W. HAZZARD, Department Commander.

J. M. VANDERSLICE, Assistant Adjutant General.

Dr. J. Schuyler, many years a Dyspeptic and suffering greatly with Neuralgia, Rheumatism and constipation, getting relief through an accidental discovery of a substitute for calomel, without its debilitating effects, precribes the same for others, varying to suit each case with gratifying results. Among many who have received the benefits of his treatment, the following bear testimony, as follows:

BLOOMSBURG, PA., April, 1880

DR. SCHUYLER. Dear Sir:—I suffered greatly with Dyspepsia for a long time. My food after eating would burn and annoy me, depressing my spirits, making me miserable indeed. I became weakened down that I could not work at my trade (sadler) I tried various remedies recommended by physicians and friends but none of them did me any good until I placed myself under your treatment when I began to improve and have continued getting better until the present time. I now feel like a new man and can work every day with cheerfulness.

JOHN CHRISTMAN

BLOOMSBURG, PA., April, 1880

DR. J. SCHUYLER, Dear Sir:—For several months I have suffered with difficulty in breathing and fullness about the stomach. Two physicians pronounced my case one of "heart disease" for which I took Digitalis at their suggestion as the only medicine that could possibly do me any good. When you told me it was only sympathetic of the stomach by bad digestion, I felt encouraged and after being under your treatment for a few days the symptoms of "heart-disease" all left me and I felt like a new man, and have continued quite well ever since.

JAMES V. FERGUSON.

BLOOMSBURG, PA., March, 1880

DR. J. SCHUYLER, Dear Sir:—I can testify to the value of your treatment for rheumatism. I suffered severely and for a long time, and used various remedies, but all in vain, until you commenced treating my case. The pain from the hip to the knee (sciatica) which was very severe, passed off in one week's time leaving me free from pain, except some shifting pains in the limbs, but by continuing the use of your medicines they have all passed away that I now feel quite well again.

JOHN STINER.

MILLVILLE, PA., April 1880.

DR. J. SCHUYLER. Dear Sir:—The medicine you sent me did me more good than any I ever tried before. I am very glad that others who had got relief from your treatment advised me to give you a trial for I had suffered from dyspepsia for a long time.

MRS HARRIET JOHNSON

MORDANSVILLE Col. Co., Pa., April 1880.

DR. J. SCHUYLER. Dear Sir:—I am pleased to give my testimony to the value of your treatment in Dyspepsia, I had suffered greatly with distressing burnings and retchings in the stomach, from which I failed to get any relief until I placed myself under your treatment, when I commenced to get better and continued to improve until I feel entirely restored.

Shade and Shelter for Stock.

It is no use when the cold north wind is howling through the crevices of the stable, or the broiling sun is roasting the miserable fly plagued cattle, to say that we wished we had planted something to make things more comfortable, unless we attend to such things now. It is really surprising to note how many miserable places there are in the country which a few dollars or a few hours at this season would make quite pleasant. A few Norway or sugar maples, spruces, cherry trees or willows, planted around buildings, cost very little and yet help wonderfully to make winter pass pleasantly away.

In regard to cattle in the summer time left to roam about sunburnt pastures, a few shade trees are a positive luxury. It is a real pleasure to see the cows lying under the shade, after having perhaps just passed some in the vicinity roasted and flyed to death in the open field. It is, however, not so easy to provide for this as it is to shelter one's buildings. A tree in in the middle of a pasture field is all very well while it is in pasture; but no good farmer has any faith in these days in permanent pastures, and when the time comes for grain or root crops in that piece of ground there is no greater nuisance than to have trees about. It interferes with the plowing, and then it robs the ground of food. It is astonishing what an extent a root will push in search of food when the tree to which it is attached stands in open ground. Still there are generally odd corners where trees may be left to advantage, especially a wet place perhaps near a spring where a willow would grow, which might as well be planted with something as not.

It is not always necessary to send a long distance to a nursery for trees, though it does no harm to patroize those public benefactors, the nurserymen, when one can afford to do so; but even these good people do not object to others planting anything they can get for nothing rather than to have them not plant at all. Trees from the woods if any are at command, can be made to do tolerably if care be taken in planting; and if they be severely pruned at planting; and in the case of the willow and the poplar, large branches, if divested of the small twigs and made like stakes, grow as well without as with roots.

Feeding the Grape Vine.

Many of the old writers dwelt strongly on the necessity of highly manuring for the best success with the grape vine; and it came at last, with growers, to be regarded as a sort of an essential to good luck that some dead carcass should be buried near a grape vine root. Most of us feel badly when a valuable horse or cow dies; but to the old gardner the case was rather providential than otherwise, as it gave the much needed food for the grape vine.

Of course this was extravagance, and because it was extravagance, the opposite idea took root, that the grape did best in poor soil. We have seen it repeatedly urged lately, that much of the ill success with the grape vine arises from rich soil. Other writers who have perhaps never owned a vine in their lives, but have merely seen how they grow from excursion car windows, have taken the cue, and tell us that in the western part of Pennsylvania, and "the hills along the Rhine," the poorest places whereon nothing else will grow, are the ones especially devoted to grape culture. We know nothing of "the hills along the Rhine;" but we do know that real practical men, who have examine dinto grape culture there, tell us that manure is continuously and laboriously carried up in baskets on the shoulders of women to these Rhine vines, and without these continuous enrichments, vine culture there would be a failure. As for the hills in the western part of the state, they may be dry and poor looking, yet everybody knows they are composed of about the richest soil in the United States.

That vines often fail in rich land everybody knows, and yet not because of the rich land, but on account of their troubles about which the learned doctors have not finally agreed. Some insist mildew is the sole cause others contend that it is an insect called phylloxera, which attacks the roots, while others are equally sure it is something in the climate or its changes. We do not pretend to settle the delicate subjects, but are quite sure that if these vines are healthy, high-feeding is not at all opposed to their taste. They are genuine bon vivants, and rarely know when they have too much of a good thing.

Salt as a Fertilizer.

"I want to know how to use salt as a fertilizer, in what quantities, and how applied. Is salt that has been used in preserving meat of any use as a fertilizer? And what kind of land is salt best adapted to?"

Your question suggests another, i. e.,

"To what extent is common salt a fertilizer, or food of plants?" That the soil is often improved by free application of salt is scarcely to be denied, but this is far from proving that salt is in itself a fertilizer. More than a century ago (1748) Browrigg, an English writer on the art of makinff salt, declared that the soil of the whole kingdom might be made rich by the applications of salt, but in practice it was found that in many instances the application of this substance had no apparent effect. Lime may be placed in the same list with salt, an indifferent fertilizer of itself, but, acting upon matter in the soil, it increases fertility. Salt destroys vermin in the soil, and their bodies are dissolved and become food for plants. It also furnishes a small quantity of soda; it converts many noxious and refractory bodies in the soil into principles of nutrition and thereby stimulates and accelerates the secretions of growing plants. Lands near the sea coast are less likely to be benefited by salt than those inland; and position and the condition of the soil should always be taken into consideration in using salt as a fertilizer. The usual method of application is to broadcast, if over grain in the fall or early spring, at the rate of six to eight bu hels per acre; but if before the crop is put in, then double this quantity may be applied with safety and often with benefit. Old salt from pork and beef barrels, or that used in salting fresh hides, is as good and sometimes much better than the new and clean. We would advise all to try salt on a small scale at first, as no one can tell in advance of its use just what the effect on the land or the growing crops. Some farmers find salt a very cheap and valuable fertilizer, others just the reverse; all probably owing to difference in soil and locality.—New York Sun.

Advertising Cheats.

It is become so common to write the beginning of an elegant, interesting article and then run into some advertisement that we avoid all such cheats and simply call attention to the merits of Hop Bitters in as plain honest terms as possible, to induce people to give them one trial, as no one who knows their value will ever use anything else.

CATARRH

IS IT CURABLE?

THOSE who have suffered from the various and complicated forms of disease summoned by Catarrh, and have tried many physicians and remedies without relief or cure, await the news of a new mode of treatment with considerable anxiety. And well they may, for no disease that can be mentioned is so universally prevalent and so destructive to health as Catarrh. Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, all serious and frequently fatal affections of the lungs follow, in many instances, a case of simple but neglected Catarrh. Other sympathetic affections, such as deafness, impaired eyesight, and loss of sense of smell, may be referred to as minor but nevertheless serious results of neglected Catarrh, bad enough in themselves, but as nothing compared with the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs likely to follow.

IT CAN BE CURED.

It can be cured. There is no doubt about it. The immediate relief afforded by Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh is but a slight evidence of what may follow a persistent use of this remedy. The hardened matter that has lodged in the nasal passages is removed with a few applications; the ulceration and inflammation subsided and perfect recuperative membranal linings of the head are cleansed and purified. Constitutionally its action is that of a powerful purifying agent, delivering in due course through the system the acid poison, the destructive agent in catarrhal diseases.

A COMPLICATED CASE.

Gentlemen,—My case is briefly as follows: I have had catarrh for ten years, each year with increasing severity. Last year I had it in its worst form. Through one nostril I had droppings in the throat, a very bad cough, nights were bad and sleep broken. I took a remedy for it at night before being able to lie down and sleep, and a constant dull pain in my head. My head was at times so full of catarrhal matter as to injure my sense of hearing. I clear it me to take several times in the night to clear it and my throat before I could sleep. Every one of these distressing symptoms has disappeared under the use of not quite three bottles of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. My hearing is fully restored. I have no asthmatic symptoms, no cough, no droppings in the throat, no headache, and in every way better than I have been for years. I could feel the effects of the CURE on my appetite, on my kidneys, and, in fact, every part of my system. What has been done in my case is wholly the effect of the RADICAL CURE.

Very respectfully, C. B. LAWRENCE.

THE GREAT MEXICAN REMEDY.

Thousands suffering from Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Scrofula and kindred diseases, will hail with delight this new and wonderful discovery, which as a disease conqueror and health restorer, has no equal in modern medicine. The Great Mexican Remedy was first introduced into California in 1859, where in a few months it effected so many wonderful cures as to create a demand for the medicine from Maine to Florida. It is the only medicine in the world compounded from the native plants, roots and herbs of Mexico. It cures all humors, from the worst Scrofula, to a common blotch, pimple, or eruption, while it clears and beautifies the complexion. In diseases of the Stomach, Blood, Liver and Kidneys it has permanently cured thousands of hopeless cases where all other known remedies had failed. It does wonders in any case of Sick Headache. Two doses will break up any ordinary cough or cold. Persons suffering with Heartburn, Waterbrash, Sour Stomach, Biliousness, Costiveness, Piles, Pulpitation of the Heart, Low Spirits, and kindred affections, will find the Mexican remedy a swift and sure relief. The genuine is placed before the public, under the following name:

Herbaline Bitters the Great Mexican Remedy.

Call on your druggist and get a bottle of the Mexican Remedy and convince yourself that it is the Best Medicine in the World.
